“I thank my God in all my remembrance of you...because of your partnership in the gospel from the first day until now.” Philippians 1:3-5 ESV

Where do we look for God? I know that I often look for God in big world events and big programs here at Messiah. But I hope that I also remember to look for God in the small everyday moments too. God is at work in the way we welcome a child, the way a new family is greeted as they walk in the door, the way we engage our children in God’s Word and the way our children work alongside one another to serve others.

Faith Formation is a partnership. God asks us to love one another and to follow Him. As a church family we walk alongside one other as Christian brothers and sisters encouraging one another on this journey of faith. Messiah partners with parents and grandparents as they bring their children to God’s house to learn the stories of God’s people and to learn to look for God in all the big and small moments in life. Our call is to support families as they raise their child to love and serve God and we do so by showing God’s love to all children every chance that we can.

Our volunteers are wonderful partners in teaching God’s word every Sunday and encouraging one another in faith. A huge thank you to all our Sunday School teachers: Jena Baldridge, Penny Van Vleet, Tom Hollern, Kam Chamberlain, Kim Rudabaugh, Linda Eskesen, Mike McLaughlin, Anne Baunach, Jaymie Baunach, Jillian Luebke, Sandi Wollum and Bruce Vatne. Thank you to Elisa Holman for fabulous Sunday School music every Sunday. Thank you to all of the loving adults who are our partners in this amazing ministry.

Serving Christ with you,

Kelly Mullin
